Section 1

What You Can Expect From Us

This section details some of the ways we can offer additional support to customers who need it. We will:

-  Keep a Priority Services Register of all our customers who may need additional support to manage their energy account. This would include where you, or someone in your household, is of pensionable age, chronically sick, disabled or may have had a change in personal circumstances

-  Offer to add you to the Priority Services Register if we become aware that you could benefit from any of its services. Alternatively, please let us know if you think you're eligible

-  Make sure we tell all of our customers about the Priority Services Register and how they can be added. We do this once each year by including our 'Helping you get more from ScottishPower' leaflet with your energy bill

-  Offer a range of services that support customers in managing their energy account based on our customers' needs

-  Make sure your local gas and/or electricity distribution companies know if you are on our Priority Services Register and have a medical condition which requires a constant energy supply. They can then contact you in advance if they are planning any interruption to your supply

-  Arrange to reposition (where we can) or remove your prepayment meter free of charge if you are no longer able to top-up your meter (due to its location and/or your personal circumstances)

-  Treat in confidence any personal or financial details you give us. To find out more, visit www.getsafeonline.org

-  Maintain this charter in order to confirm what services we will provide for customers requiring additional support

Your water company also offer a range of additional services that may be of help. You can find out more at the www.ofwat.gov.uk website or by contacting your water company directly.

Section 2.5

Continuous Electricity Supply

We understand that customers who need extra support may be more dependent on their electricity supply than others.

If you have essential equipment that needs electricity, such as a home dialysis machine or artificial ventilator, let us know and we'll inform your local electricity distribution company. They must tell you about planned interruptions to your supply, for maintenance work or testing, in advance.

However, your supply may be cut off due to emergency conditions, such as severe weather. Please ask your hospital or medical practice about a battery backup, or other arrangements, to help you cope with an unexpected loss of power.

If your electricity supply goes off unexpectedly:

- Call the 24-hour electricity emergency number free on 105
- This will put you through to the people who can help
- You can also visit www.powercut105.com for more information

Section 2.6

Gas Safety Checks

It's always a relief to know that your gas appliances are all safe and working well. We offer a free annual gas safety check to some of our Priority Services customers upon request. To see if you're eligible please check the conditions listed below.

During the safety check, a qualified gas engineer visits your home to test your gas appliances and other gas fittings to make sure they're safe to use. This service is available if you haven't had a gas safety check at your current home within the last 12 months.

When checking your gas appliances, the engineer will also check flues, the supply of combustion air, operating pressure and heat input. They will also check the overall operation of your appliances, to make sure they're all safe.

Are you eligible for a free annual gas safety check?

You'll be eligible for a free annual gas safety check if you own and occupy your own home, receive a means tested benefit and

- you live with at least one child who is aged under five years; or
- you are of pensionable age, disabled or chronically sick and either;
 - Live alone; or
 - Live with others, all of whom are of pensionable age, disabled, chronically sick or under 18;
- haven't already received a gas safety check within the past 12 months

If you rent a property, your landlord is responsible for arranging an annual gas safety check.

If you smell gas, or think you may have a gas leak:

- Call the 24-hour Gas Emergency Service free on 0800 111 999
- Turn off the gas immediately at the emergency control valve by the meter
- Open all windows and doors
- Do not use electrical appliances, light switches or naked flames

Section 3
